

Stamina Training Failures

So I first wanted to try training with a basic sex toy for men, that I thought might give me some insight on how to go about this whole experiment. The details are documented (with shame) HERE. The companies I dealt with for sex toys ended up costing me not only too much money, but quite a bit of time before I could begin my own experiment.

To summarize, it's not so much the toys themselves that were a problem. It was the companies I dealt with. In one case, I got triple-billed for the same invoice. In another case, the product came from China (which I had no idea about). Do you know how embarrassing it feels like to go to the post office and get asked to pay duty for a 'penis pump machine'? Let me tell you it's VERY goddamn embarrassing.

Bottom line – know who you do business with before you buy. I did find good products out there that are worth using. If you're interested, you can see a list HERE.